

W. C. CHRISTIAN FLOUNDERS AROUND TO FIND EXCUSE FOR CHANGE OF PUMP SITE

Testimony Resumed in Water Works Probe Today With Ex-Member of Public Service Board on the Stand.

The water works investigation was resumed Monday morning, with W. C. Christian on the stand.

Mr. E. A. Smith had been excused on Saturday, and his figures as to the total cost of the plant, as planned by L. K. Davis and as begun on the abandoned site would have been $283,617.71.

Mr. W. C. Christian sweated and looked for figures, after being confronted with articles in the American Tribune, that had been printed under his supervision, but this was not during his examination by Mr. Heck, but previous to his taking the stand, and was, in its nature, informal.

Mr. Heck began his examination by asking: "Why were extras allowed, above the contract price?"

"Well, I don't know that they should have been, there must have been some error."

(Again Mr. Christian looked at his sheet which contained his figures). Continuing, Mr. Christian said he had seen a crack in the wall, but it was after he had gone out of office.

"All I know about any sediment having accumulated at the intake well, was gained from Mr. Cocanour, the engineer at the plant."

"The intake crib was put in during my term of office and was according to the plans prepared by Mr. Davis. I never saw whether or not this crib was built according to the plans, but after there was a decrease in the flow of water I went up, and think that considerable of that decrease was caused by a soil sediment."

"It might be possible that Mr. Sherman accepted pipe that were not up to specifications, at the pumping station, after consulting with our board, and I, of course, agreed to his opinion."

"The price of the intake well at the abandoned site, as drawn by L. K. Davis, was $1500, at the site as removed by our board it would have been $1500."

"What were the extras required at the site adopted by your board, above those required by the original or Davis plans, for the abandoned site as recommended by the Lamb board?"

"The total amount included extra pipe to the amount of $1500, but I do not know where some of this amount went."

"The total increase in the depth of the wells at our site, I thought, would be enough to bring it up to the height of the concrete and other work done about the site."

"Could you not have furnished several steps into your building at the entrance, rather than to have caused extra grating?"

"We thought that it would look better to make the entrance with a grating approach."

"I couldn't estimate the cost of the increased concrete to make the grading."

"(The witness was then asked to look over figures on several plans handed him by Mr. Heck, and said it was over $400.)"

Continuing, Mr. Christian said: "I think that the well at the abandoned site would have cost, to have completed it, more than at the site adopted by our board."

"Do you know of any concession made by the allowance of extras that was not given to the contractor?"

"No, I don't."

"Would the building at the contract price (under the original contract) have cost more or less than the one put up by you under the amended contract?"

Mr. Christian could not answer this question without referring to City Engineer Charles Wells, who asked to have the plans.

Continuing, Mr. Christian testified:

"The change of site, from an engineer's standpoint, was first advised to the board by Mr. Mason, who was the engineer of the work, employed by the city, and the advisability of the change was talked over informally by Mr. Taylor, Mr. McVeigh and myself, and was taken up in regard to an editorial in the Daily Advocate of May 12, 1906, which stated that the change of site, as contemplated, was advisable."

(No editorial appeared in the Advocate on the change of site of said date. Matters pertaining to a change of site to the city's property, known as the Horn's hill tract, were given to the Advocate reporter by the Board of Service as a news story. The Advocate always condemned the removal to the present site.)

"At whose suggestion was the change of site made?"

"I thought at first that the first site, upon which the city had exended lots of money, as contemplated by the L. K. Davis plans, should not be abandoned, but I talked with Mr. Taylor and Mr. McVeigh about the matter, and they were favorable to a change of site."

"I then talked with Mr. W. A. Veach and he told me that the city could not secure a right of way, according to the Davis plans. I also thought, after talking to others and looking at the proposed site, that the site ought to be changed, and that if the city needed a new right of way, it should be secured immediately, and I suggested the purchase of the land that is now used. I also looked over the abandoned site and thought it was advisable to change it, and I think that Mr. Taylor and Mr. McVeigh were in favor of abandoning the site, but don't want to say that either would have taken the initiative, to have introduced a resolution in the service board without my consent."

"To secure the site now occupied, I first talked with V. C. Barnett, and asked him for what the land could be bought, and he said that he would have to see about it."

"My next negotiations were made with F. H. Keenan, as representing F. C. Evans, and I learned that the property was not for sale at any price, as some of the heirs lived in Columbus, and their consent was necessary to the transfer of the property."

"We learned that the Newark Water company had paid $200 per acre for land bought from the estate nearly 20 years before, which was contiguous to that of the land which was contemplated by us."

J. J. STORROW AND J. F. FITZGERALD, WHO CLAIM ELECTION IN BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 17.—The recent municipal election, conducted on line-hitherto unknown to city politics in America, party divisions being eliminated as nonessential to good government, in cities, did not result in a decisive victory for either of the two leading candidates, and a recount has been asked. On the face of the returns former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was apparently elected by a plurality of 1415 over James J. Storrow, his nearest opponent. The other two candidates, George A. Hib-

MEAT IS TO BE BOYCOTTED

Cleveland, O., Jan. 17.—Resolutions pledging the signers to abstain from eating meat for at least thirty days were set in circulation among workmen in large shops here and will, it is said, reach 50,000 men. The movement has the backing of a number of members of the Superintendents' and Foremen's club and the hope is to bring down existing prices.

At a meeting of the club ten superintendents and foremen promised to circulate the petition in their shops in each of which over 1000 workmen are employed.

The movement among the men to abstain from the use of meat for thirty and perhaps sixty days, in an effort to bring lower prices, has today grown to unexpected proportions and 7,000 men have enrolled. It is expected before the week is over that 15,000 men representing 70,000 people, will join the movement which will later take in all classes and make an effective protest against the cost of provisions.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 17.—The condition of the czarina, who for years has been the victim of morbid melancholia is critical and fear is entertained that her decline may end in a speedy death at no distant day. No member of the official family will today give out any information regarding the conference held Saturday by the famous physicians who have been treating her.

WALSH MUST SERVE TIME

Washington, Jan. 17.—John R. Walsh, the Chicago millionaire banker, will have to serve his sentence of five years in the Leavenworth penitentiary. The supreme court of the United States today denied his petition for a review of the case.

As soon as he was advised of the action of the supreme court in the Walsh case, United States District Attorney Sims notified Walsh and his attorneys to appear in the United States circuit court of appeals at 2:30 this afternoon. Sims will ask that a mandate be issued committing Walsh immediately to the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan. It is expected

COUNTRY TIED UP BY BIG BLIZZARD, BLOCKING STEAM AND ELECTRIC LINES

The big blizzard which started in the southwest and swept in a northeasterly direction toward New York and New England affected a large section of the country, tying up traffic in many localities and bringing widespread suffering, especially to the poor of the larger cities. Many places were snowbound for days, causing local scarcities of coal and fuel. The blizzard, one of the heaviest of recent years, passed out to sea on the northeastern coast of the United States. In many places the heavy downfall of snow was added to the remaining snow of the Christmas blizzard, and its removal entailed great activity and long hours of work on the authorities. In New York and elsewhere thousands of men were pressed into service in the efforts to remove from the streets the burden which impeded traffic and caused numerous accidents to pedestrians and teams. Outside of the cities the railroads, both steam and electric, had their work cut out for them to remove the snow from their tracks. The illustrations show an electric snow plow bucking the drifts in a large city, a big rotary snow plow on a steam railroad ready to tunnel a way through for trains, and a gang of men clearing away the snow from city park.

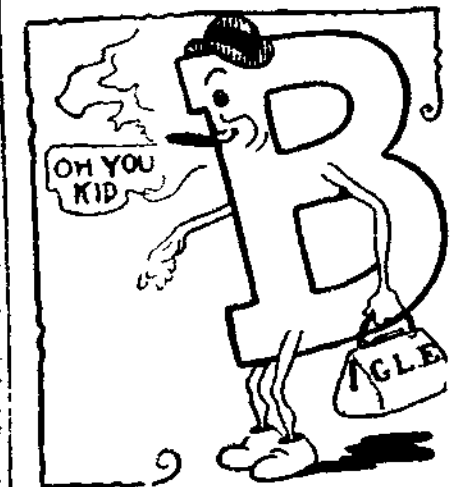

RIFE MUST DIE IN THE CHAIR

Columbus, Jan. 17.—Gov. Harmon this morning refused to commute the sentence of Harry Rife, and he must die in the electric chair after midnight tomorrow for the murder of Mrs. Lida Gilmore, of Eaton. A plea based on mercy alone was presented to the board of pardons last week, but the latter in a sealed note Saturday refused to recommend a commutation of Rife's sentence to life imprisonment.

WILL INVESTIGATE THE HIGH PRICES

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 17.—Summons were issued today by Prosecutor Hunt for furniture dealers in all branches of the profession to appear before the grand jury tomorrow as witnesses in the prosecution's investigation into the cost of high prices.

SENATE ADOPTS CONFERENCE REPORT ON THE RESOLUTION

Washington, Jan. 17.—Unanimously and without debate, the senate this afternoon adopted the conference report presented by Senator Nelson on the Callaghan-Pinot investigating resolution. Beautiful Wife of Artist
Christy Must Tell of Past Life

FAMOUS LETTER READ

Was Written by Mrs. Christy Last November and Speaks of "The Little Dark Places of My Life".

Zanesville, O., Jan. 17.—When the hearing of the habeas corpus proceeding instituted by Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy against her artist husband, Natalie, was resumed today, Mrs. Christy rested her case. Attorneys for Christy immediately plunged into a mass of evidence which they declare will show that the wife is not a fit person to care for the daughter.

The first deposition read this morning was that of Frank Vandever, a New York attorney, who said he had advised Mrs. Christy not to bring any action until she had time to live down her past life. The deposition concluded as Mrs. Christy had declared she took treatment at a Keeley institute. It again dragged the name of Purdy, the Christy chauffeur, into the case. The case will probably not be concluded until the middle of the week.

Zanesville, O., Jan. 17.—Throughout all the disagreeable and numerous features of the habeas corpus case of Mrs. Christy against her artist husband one feature that stands out most prominently and most impressively in the pluck that is being daily manifested by Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy, about whom, until the present court proceedings were instituted a few months ago, comparatively little was known.

Day after day this beautiful little woman, sad eyed and motherly, has faced the multitude of staring eyes and the rude gapes of the curious throng like a real heroine. She has faced the music without seeming fear or trepidation, and again today reiterated her belief in the success of her suit.

That she is an actress, and a clever one, is established. In court, as the most interested spectator or as the principal character, she can weep, smile, chatter, blush or frown at will, seemingly having control of all womanly emotions at all times. That she is clever was established by the manner in which she parried the cross-examination thrusts of her husband's counsel, Attorney Frank A. Durban.

The most important, if not sensational, feature of the case that has yet developed was the introduction of the letter written to the artist by Mrs. Christy last November, and in which she used the expression: "The little dark places of my life." That the calcium light of heartless publicity is to be turned full upon these little "dark places" is an accepted conclusion, making friends of Mrs. Christy shudder at the ordeal that confronts her.

After the letter had been introduced as evidence and read Mrs. Christy married Attorney Durban's thrusts by declaring it a sham and a myth and written merely for the purpose of arousing her husband's jealousy and thereby hoping by it to excite in him the interest and love for her that he formerly professed.

However, since, as she admitted, Howard never answered the letter, its mission was a failure. As the letter indicated and the cross-examination also developed, while the wife and mother is striving as hard as she and her learned counsel can to secure the custody of her daughter, she still loves her artist husband and desires a reconciliation.

She has even gone so far in public interviews, to refute the statement credited to her of not wanting to live in Zanesville and the matter of a divorce for the couple was explicitly refuted when she testified on cross-examination: "I have never had any intention of divorcing Mr. Christy." The following is an exact copy of the letter that is now such a predominating feature in the case.

POLICE COURT.

When Nick Nicholas, an Italian, exposed his person to women on Locust street the other day, it just cost him 30 days' liberty for his little performance. He was arrested on Locust street and the police court judge on him by Mayor Alderson who sentenced him to the fellow for his indecent act, although it is probable the lecture was not understood. Nicholas was charged by some men and carried in a bag in the rear of St. Francis de Sales church, and held there under guard until the patrol and Officer Sutton took him to the city prison.

William B. Lester, a B. & O. strike-breaker, went on a "saturday morning" with the result that by noon he was ripe for the grasp of Officer Burke, who sent him to the city prison. A fine of $1 and costs was levied on him this morning, and he was released on $1000 bond and discharged.

Tony Sheppard, another one of Sunday 1145—was a guest of Tony Sheppard for a few days in the morning. Tony was sent to the prison in the morning, wagon by Officer Burke, and he was morning, for providing a room in the streets in the North End. He was fined $1 and costs.

Five other arrests, but the most common police characters, were made of Sunday by Officers Burke, Moore and Moore, and all drew the maximum fine of $1 and costs.

Some men, to judge by their conversation, are recovering from cutting their "I-Ten."

The new bridge over the Gauley river at Sara, India, for the Eastern Bengal railway, is to cost $6,500,000.

THE REVOLT IS SPREADING.

Cannon's Decision to Stay Causes Renewal of Fight.

CHAMP CLARK GIVES A SLOGAN

President Favors Investigation into High Prices—Some Sort of Inquiry Certain—Does Politics Figure in It? Herbert Parsons Objects to Crayons of Speakers.

Washington, Jan. 17.—As the session progresses the war within the Republican party overshadows every other issue—overshadows the Baillinger investigation, railroad legislation, even trusts. It now seems definitely settled that Cannon will fight it out. He will not resign, nor will he announce his withdrawal as a candidate for speaker in 1911. This ends every possible basis for a truce. Cannon is to stay, and Aldrich is to stay. Moreover, both will fight to retain their power. The president has said he will not interfere, and the congressional committee has practically read the insurgents out of the party. Ohio and Indiana are showing symptoms of insurgency, and almost every day new territory is being added to the disaffected area. This revolt is growing into a political movement of first class importance. Keep your eye on it.

High Prices Inquiry. There is certain to be a thorough and extensive investigation of high prices. The president favors it, and resolutions have been introduced in both houses. The charge is made that politics is behind the inquiry and that the regulars have been forced to take up the question to forestall the Democratic and insurgent arguments in the congressional election. If this motive is present—and it may be to a degree—it is only a secondary cause. The primary reason for the investigation is the outcry from the people to know what it is that has hit them. Mere explanations do not explain, and a probe that does not go to the bottom will not satisfy. Whatever politics there may be in congress, there is little among the people, who have to meet the higher cost of living.

The Truth as a Political Issue. Champ Clark has announced his slogan in the coming Democratic campaign, and it is this: "Are public men under any sort of obligation to tell the truth?" One objection to this as a battlecry is that it is too long, and another is that it is not a slogan, but a psychological inquiry. Observation leads to the conclusion that, whatever their obligation may or may not be, public men do sometimes tell the truth—for instance, when they fear that if they told something else they might be caught at it. There are also instances on record when they have told the truth in a burst of confidence, as when Richard Croker said, "I am for my own pocket all the time." I am afraid, however, that if all public men felt under an obligation to tell the whole truth about what goes on behind the scenes in Washington there would be a revolt against all parties throughout the country beside which the present insurrection would seem like a summer breeze.

Prejudiced Against All Speakers. Herbert Parsons of New York objects to the crayons of the former speakers of the house now hanging about the chamber. They are rather atrocious as works of art, and there may be reason in Mr. Parsons' contention that oil paintings would be better. But in view of the recent row between Parsons and Cannon is it not possible that the New Yorker's feelings toward the present speaker has given him a jaundiced eye? In other words, would the phiz of any speaker look good to Parsons, even though done in oils by a Raphael or a Titian?

"The Fired Forester." Even though Pinchot has been fired, he still remains in the center of the stage. The ovation given him by his employees when he gave up the keys of his office has been echoed on the outside. There is a general concession on all sides that technically at least "the fired forester" was wrong and that he gave the president little choice but to dismiss him. It is even hinted that Pinchot courted the martyr's crown and that since getting it he has been the happiest man in Washington. I am not so sure of that, but I am sure that he was slated to go even before the Doolittle letter brought matters to a crisis. Now he will be free to testify in the Baillinger investigation and to write or speak as he pleases. The very storm he has raised will make it impossible for the administration to take a backward step on observation even if it desired to do so. Pinchot has accomplished that for which he started out. He has aroused the American people. He has paid for it by his own official life, but it is not the first time men have advanced principle by the sacrifice of self. Indeed, I am sometimes forced to believe that great causes are advanced in no other way.

Knox to Continue Root's Policy. It is now planned that Secretary Knox or his representative, pointing by the great success that attended ex-Secretary Root's visits to the republics of South and Central America in 1906, shall make a somewhat similar visit to the principal southern republics during the coming summer.

INAUGURATION CHANGE SAVED FROM DEFEAT

House Opponents of Project Show Unsuspected Strength, Led by Perkins of New York.

Washington, Jan. 17.—An unexpected early adjournment of the house probably saved from defeat the Henry resolution proposing an amendment of the constitution, changing the date of presidential inaugurations. Led by Representative Perkins of New York, the opponents of the resolution showed unexpected strength. Fearful lest he could not muster enough votes to secure the required two-thirds majority, in the absence of several members committed to the resolution, Representative Henry of Texas, its author, made the point of no return. Mr. Parker saved the day with a motion to adjourn, which was carried without opposition.

Mr. Perkins said all the clamor for the change in date had come from the city of Washington. He said satirically he was just as anxious to amend the constitution as to have a pleasant day for the inauguration as he was to insure a nice day for the three-ring circus.

TAX PROBLEM

SUBJECT OF A BILL TO BE INTRODUCED BY SENATOR ALSDORF.

Would Have Public Accountants Examine All Corporations—Other Legislation.

Columbus, O., Jan. 17.—The re-assembling of the state legislature today brought to light several new and novel ideas of legislation.

Senator Alsdorf, who has in hand Governor Harrison's tax bill, is the author of a suggestion to solve all tax problems by compelling corporations in Ohio to employ public accountants to make quarterly or semi-annual reports of the corporations themselves to the state for taxation purposes.

The public accountants to be engaged under the Alsdorf plan are to be paid by the corporation and to be under oath to render them liable to prosecution on the charge of perjury in case they falsify returns. The accountant would be able to get at the real facts of corporate interests. A proposition to create a legislative committee, or a state commission, to meet with similar bodies from other states and confer on the subject of a compensatory law to supplement all employers' liability laws, will be submitted to the house by Representative Norris. His object is to require employers to compensate employees injured at their tasks, or to compensate the heirs in case of death, no matter where the responsibility for the death or injury lies.

NEW EQUIPMENT HAS BEGUN TO ARRIVE FOR B. & O.

Baltimore, Jan. 17.—Delivery of the new equipment orders recently placed by the B. & O. railroad, involving an expenditure of $1,000,000, was begun during the past week with the arrival of 10 freight engines from Richmond. The engines are of the heaviest consolidation type, known as E-27-B class, very similar to those purchased by the B. & O. two years ago. This new motive power is being placed in immediate service and will be delivered in consignments of two each day until the order for 34 has been filled. It is expected that delivery of the 28 Atlantic type passenger locomotives will begin early in February. On Monday the delivery of the B. & O.'s order for 10,000 freight cars will be commenced by the Standard Steel Car Co., of Butler, Pa., who will fill the order at the rate of 20 or more a day. Practically all the material to be used in the freight equipment has been assembled at the plants of the various contracting concerns, and by February 1 it is said there will be a daily delivery of from 75 to 100 cars.

STORY OF LIFE OF DR. W. D. MILLER

The January number of the Dental Summary, a magazine devoted to the interests of dental profession, contains the first installment of the story of the life of Dr. Willoughby Dayton Miller, who was born and raised in Licking county, and who attended school in Newark.

Dr. Miller gained world wide fame as a dentist and was at one time on the faculty of a university at Berlin, Germany. He was a great patriot and when offered the chair of dentistry at the University of Michigan he accepted, and returned to this country. He was home when his death occurred on July 27, 1907.

The magazine story is written by Drs. E. C. Mills and H. M. Semans of Columbus and is well illustrated, showing scenes near Dr. Miller's late home in Liberty township, and views of Granville. The first installment tells of the early life of the man who afterwards gained fame in his chosen profession.

Dr. Miller was a master of his science and at the World's Medical Convention of the St. Louis Exposition in 1904, Dr. Miller won the first prize, a gold medal for the best essay on the Science of Dentistry. The papers were submitted without names and judged on their merits alone. Germany made much ado about it. Dr. Miller was connected with the German university, and claimed the honor for German science, but Liberty township ought to have had the honor.

THE COASTING ACCIDENT AT GRANVILLE

Injured All Getting Along Nicely. Granville Boy Monored at Chicago.

Granville, O., Jan. 17.—The coasting accident of last Saturday has had the effect of putting a damper on the sport, and many who have indulged in the game to the fullest have abandoned it for the present, or at least until they recover from the shock occasioned by the accident. As has been stated, this is really the most serious accident that has occurred on the hills in Granville for a number of years, and this one would not have occurred had it not been for the bravery of the steersman in desiring to avoid a collision with a vehicle. The boys had been engaged in the sport for some time when the accident occurred. They had started from the top of the hill and were descending at the rate of a mile a minute. Just as the sled neared the junction of Mulberry and College street, a horse attached to a buggy, and driven by a woman, started across the course. In attempting to guide the sled out of the way of the vehicle, it swerved and struck a tree, with the result that all the boys, with the exception of one, were injured. Mr. Jay Workman had his right leg broken just below the knee and sustained other injuries of a serious nature. Mr. Workman is a Freshman and is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Karl Frasch of Bremen, who is a Soph, had a number of teeth knocked out. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. George Jones of Canton, had two fingers broken. He is a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. All the boys were cared for by the fraternities to which they belonged and Mr. Workman's father came to Granville Sunday morning and took his son to his home in Dayton.

Word has been received in Granville from Chicago of another honor which has fallen to Leroy D. Sargent, '09, who is attending the U. of C. Law school. He has recently been invited to join the Law Club, a very select organization from among the students of that department. Only five men out of the Freshman class are invited to membership each year, with the privilege of bringing with them five more men of their own choice. The organization is in the nature of a literary club, debating and oratorical being prominent features, and only men of recognized literary ability are desired for membership. Mr. Sargent's name headed the list of the five men who were invited to join the club. Mr. Sargent's address is 6031 Ellis avenue, Chicago, Ill., where he is occupying rooms with Ellis P. Legler, '07; Paul Fox, '09, and Paul W. Cleveland, ex-'11.

It is cheering to the heart to learn that neither the fruit nor the wheat crops have been killed, thus far this winter. But there is still time for the usual reports to be placed in circulation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrold Martin, of Fostoria, O., who have been visiting friends in this vicinity during the past two weeks, have returned home.

Spowballing is a healthful, innocent pastime, and good exercise, but the boys should be careful and not make them too hard and heavy, thus avoiding serious accidents.

Miss Lillian Thomas, of Columbus, spent Sunday in the village, the guest of friends.

The high price of all the old time foods have a tendency to drive people to mush, beans, breakfast foods and crackers. It requires a man with a well filled purse to live as his parents used to do.

Steps are being taken to effect an organization of the alumni and old students of Denison in Columbus. Such an organization ought to prove strong with such members as O. C. Hopper, '79; Dr. F. O. Williams, '92, and others. It ought to be abundantly supplied with legal talent, having as members the following lawyers: William Harvey Jones, John M. Lewis and Thomas E. Lewis, all three of the class of '95; Benjamin Woodbury, '72; Thomas J. Keating, '74; D. E. Williams, '74; William A. Donaldson, '76. Other Denison men in Columbus are E. C. Evans, '96; C. B. Adams and C. H. Barnett, both '92; C. T. Wise, '92; Dr. G. I. Dustermeier, '93 and J. J. Prior, '96.

Man is naturally of a destructive disposition. He appears to absorb such a nature with his mother's milk, and likes to "smash things" from his earliest childhood. A little boy or a number of them, will build a snow man, the pride of their hearts, when along comes a stronger crowd of boys, and soon utterly demolish the work of the weaker crowd. And so it goes, through all ages and among all classes.

One of the most enjoyable social events of the past week was the meeting of the Social Club at the home of Mrs. Soreno Haynes, on Threshers' street, Thursday afternoon. Nearly all the members of the club were present and a most pleasant time was had by all. A fine dinner was served at 4:30 o'clock after which all adjourned to meet on Thursday, January 20 with Mrs. Goff.

Granville township farmers are rapidly increasing the value of their live stock of all kinds by breeding them from the best, much of which is imported. In a few years a poor hog, cow, sheep or horse will be an unknown quantity in this township. The improvement of poultry is keeping pace with that of live stock.

Man is made of dust, and the average woman seems to think it's gold dust.

S.S.S. THE ONLY REMEDY FOR BLOOD POISON

The first symptom of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a little sore or ulcer, so insignificant that often no attention is given it. But when the blood becomes more fully infected with the virus the mouth and throat get sore, glands in the neck and groin swell, and sometimes ulcerate, forming sores and ulcers, the hair comes out, copper colored spots appear on the body, and where the disease is allowed to remain in the system the poison frequently penetrates deeper and attacks the bones. S.S.S. is the true antidote for Contagious Blood Poison—the only remedy that is able to get at the very root of the trouble and remove every particle of the virus from the circulation; at the same time S.S.S. acts with upbuilding and tonic effect on every portion of the system. As soon as the system gets under the influence of S.S.S. the symptoms begin to disappear and soon a perfect cure is made. S.S.S. can be used in the privacy of one's own home and a permanent cure effected. To aid those who wish to cure themselves at home we have prepared a special Home Treatment book which contains much valuable information to Contagious Blood Poison Sufferers. With the aid of this book and the use of S.S.S. a cure can be effected in every case. We will send this book, and also any medical advice desired free to all who write.

AMUSEMENTS

Nancy Boyer & Company.

Nancy Boyer, characterized as "dainty and sweet," under the direction of Henry Tests and the management of Harry A. March, is rapidly assuming rank among popular stage stars. Miss Boyer is to invade the larger cities of New York state before the end of the present season, where her management believes her breezy personality and dainty winsomeness will prove a relish to the jaded theatre patrons of the east. Miss Boyer will be seen at the Auditorium theatre every afternoon and evening this week.

"The Travelling Salesman."

Henry B. Harris will present James Ord's successful comedy, "The Travelling Salesman," at the Auditorium theatre February 2, an announcement which is received with decided interest by local theatre-goers. "The Travelling Salesman," is one of the most noted hits of recent times. It ran for an entire season at the Gaiety theatre in New York city, four months at the Park theatre in Boston, and was a tremendous hit at the Illinois theatre in Chicago, where it ran all summer. It's a play of today and its story is based on a phase of American life that abounds in every city, and takes that well known type, the commercial traveler as its central figure. On the opening night in New York the dramatic writers, as well as the public, were most enthusiastic over this comedy by a young playwright, who, though he had previously written "The Chorus Lady," was really unknown in New York and the big theatrical centers. The young playwright, though his years be few, has had wide and varied experience, viewing the world from many points and observing understandingly its different phases.

"Graustark."

To those who have not read the book of "Graustark," which has been dramatized and which is to play an engagement at the Auditorium theatre in February, a short resume of the play will be of interest. Grenfall Lorry, a young American of much wealth and spirit, meets a young princess in America, who is traveling incognito, and falls desperately in love with her. She invites him to call on her in Edelweiss, her home. Neither Lorry nor his friend ever heard of the place, but determined to find her, he solicits the aid of an American friend in Paris. They finally locate the place and the first night of their arrival they overhear a plot to abduct the princess of Graustark, who turns out to be Lorry's lost love. They rescue her, not knowing who she is. After many stirring scenes in and about the castle, during which they are separated, they are finally reunited and all ends happily.

The scenery in use is exceptionally magnificent, as is the costuming of the different characters. While the play is presented by a most capable cast of players.

Nothing piles picture upon picture so profusely as the new play, "Graustark," which is to play an engagement at the Auditorium theatre in February, a short resume of the play will be of interest.

In the latest moving pictures taken by the royal cinematograph at the command of Emperor William the crown prince of the German empire is shown leading a force of charge across the parade ground. A charge he was taken while instructing his officers in the art of handling cannon, and placed a shed in the breach with his own hands.

The films have been ordered for sale, according to reports from Germany, so that the millions of people who patronize the moving picture theatres may see how their future emperor really appears in battle array.—From February Popular Mechanics.
